O'Brien Disheartened at the Outlook.

HE AND DILLON ISSUE MANIFESTOS.

They Announce That Negotiations for Settling the Factional Fight Have Failed—Both Will Go to England to Serve Their Terms.

NO HOPE FOR IRELAND.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—William O'Brien has issued a long statement on the Irish Parliamentary party situation. He says:
"The experience of the past few weeks, gathered in personal interviews, letters and newspapers, confirms my conviction that only a heart to heart saving of the Irish cause. It is my duty to solemnly declare that no difficulty existed which a little more sacrifice of personal feelings on both sides might not have surmounted. No useful purpose can be served by publishing the details of negotiations, and I have, therefore, decided to regard them as confidential, but I think none of the parties concerned will seriously question that on the main points a substantial agreement was established. I can not too strongly express with what feelings we found the settlement shipwrecked at the last moment by mere contents of words, which offer a shockingly inadequate excuse for conduct which has been surrounded by the details of negotiations. Hampered at every step by a mischief-making section of the press and also by responsible persons who seemed to resent any attempt to give a less barbarous character to the conflict and the reconciliation impeded by persons entirely devoted to our own and our opponents' strength, the irreconcilables of all actions have carried the day. Dillon and myself can not longer stand their deplorable work. We should have been more sensitive to the obligations we incur by refusing to participate in such a conflict had we overhauled from any of Ireland's enemies. We can do nothing more till we have recovered freedom of action by getting through with the sentence standing against us. On the expiration of that term I shall be happy to submit myself to the judgment of my constituents; and if I can not otherwise assist I can enable them to commit their interests to other hands."

Mr. O'Brien expresses the hope that the inevitable conflict forced upon the country may be conducted without personal bitterness and degrading personality, so that when the unhappy passions of the hour have exhausted themselves all may again co-operate in the Nation's cause.

Mr. Dillon, in a short statement, admits that he had been largely influenced to mediate by the action of Mr. Par-nell's most prominent opponents. Mr.
Parnell, he says, had been assailed with shocking personal vindictiveness and brutality in utter disregard of what was due him in return for his splendid services. This personal element had in many minds hopelessly obscured the great public issues and driven thousands in Ireland and America into Parnell's camp who otherwise would have opposed his continued leadership. Mr.
Dillon continues:

"I have resented the whole of Mr. Parnell's proceedings. I was utterly unable to accept his leadership after the famous manifesto, yet had I been free from the sentence of imprisonment I should have found it difficult, if not impossible, to throw myself heartily into a struggle conducted in a method utterly abhorrent to me. The House conference found myself in perfect accord with Mr. O'Brien on the facts submitted to me that alternative but the arrangement he suggested would free our cause from disaster. I therefore felt it to be my duty to accept of it and to support him in the difficult task he had undertaken. Events have fully borne out Mr.
O'Brien's views and proved that the agreement he contemplated was perfectly possible, but from the beginning of the negotiations potential influences were working on both sides against peace, and we are now compelled sorrowfully to announce failure. Those who, either from ignorance or malice, have construed our efforts will before long realize the full extent of their responsibility. For my own part I can not even now abandon the hope that the good sense of the Irish people will assert itself and insist upon putting an end to an ineane conflict that can result only in their humiliation and ruin."

Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon will immediately return to England and surrender themselves to the authorities, and serve the terms in prison to which they were sentenced. Mr. O'Brien will place his wife in the care of her parents while he is in prison.

In an interview Mr. Parnell declared that he would not recede from his position, which he said was consistent. He would not submit, he said, to the dictation of Mr. Gladstone and the priests.
He believed that the general election would not be held for two years yet.
Mr. Parnell will start for England Friday to begin another campaign.

OUT OF THE RACE

Illinois Republicans Drop the Name of Ex-Governor Oglesby in the Senatorial Contest, and Vote for C. J. Lindley.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—The Republicans and F. M. B. A. men in the Illinois Legislature failed to agree on a compromise candidate for United States Senator at their conference. In the joint session the Republicans voted for Oglesby for three ballots. On the seventy-seventh ballot they dropped Oglesby's name and took up that of C. J.
Lindley. A recess was then taken until 3 o'clock p. m. The Farmers' Alliance members voted for Stelle on all the ballots.

The joint session reassembled at 3 o'clock and two more ballots were taken, the last—the seventy-ninth—resulting: Palmer, 101; Lindley, 100; Stelle, 3. The joint session then adjourned.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the Republican steering committee submitted the following list of names to the three farmers' representatives, with the announcement that the Republican strength would be thrown to any one of them they might select as a candidate. The entire list was rejected by the farmer members:

Mutual Benefit Association; Representative

date of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association for Congress in the Sixteenth Illinois district, or any Republican member of the Thirty-seventh General Assembly.

Hastings' Accounts All Right.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—Further investigation of the Adjutant-General's department develops facts that show General Hastings' administration to have been most creditable. A report given out at the department shows a larger balance in favor of the General than was reported. The total is $54,- 834.78. As against this there are bills on file ready for payment to the amount of $14,333.43, and a balance of transportation estimated at $5,000—total, $19,333.43, showing a balance to the credit of General Hastings of $35,- 501.35.

the successor to the late Secretary of the Treasury Windom.

Loss of an Ocean Steamer.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—On November 26
the British steamer Thane more, Captain Butcher, left Baltimore for London. Since that date nothing has been heard of the vessel except that she was seen off the coast shortly after her departure from Baltimore. A lot of wreckage seen by a passing vessel about 100 miles north of Chesapeake bay is believed to be that of the Thane

SHERMAN NEAR DEATH.

The General Said To Be Sinking Fast.

ALL HOPE OF RECOVERY ABANDONED.

Senator Sherman and the General's Family at His Bedside—A Priest Called to His Dying Couch—The Latest Bulletin.

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special]—At 2
p. m. the following bulletin was posted at the Herald office:

"General Sherman is sinking fast. He cannot live through the night."

SHERMAN

All day the battle between death and General Sherman waged with varying fortune. The bedside of the aged sufferer was surrounded by the members of his family and loving friends and all that medical science could suggest to ward off the encroachments of the insidious disease which had attacked his face was done. The chances were against him. It was his second case of erysipelas and much more severe than the first one. His many years—he celebrated his 71st Sunday last—had weakened his iron constitution, and it was certain he had little reserve force with which to battle against it. But his brother and his children remembered how he came forth victorious from many a forlorn hope before they refused to lose heart or to admit that his case was hopeless, and at noon, as if in answer to their faith, he began to rally from his sinking spell.

All of General Sherman's family, with the exception of his son, Rev. T.
E. Sherman, who is studying in the Jesuit institution in the Island of Jersey and who has been notified by cable of his father's condition, watched by his bedside Tuesday night. His friend, Dr. and Lieutenant-Colonel Charles T. Alexander of the army, was in constant attendance upon him. Shortly after midnight it was noticed that his condition had changed for the worse and that he was steadily growing weaker. His face and neck were badly inflamed and any motion seemed to be quite painful. But, as a general thing, he did not suffer much.
He lay in a state of coma and could be roused at long intervals to partake of medicine or nourishment.
In his conscious moments he seemed to be aware of the danger of his situation, but he bore his pains and faced the menacing death with the same simple courage which had always marked his strong character. He waited without trepidation for the dread visitor. The only nourishment which could be given him was whiskey and milk, and but small quantities of these.
The bulletins were discouraging during the morning hours, but about noon their tenor changed and the doctors began to report an improvement. Dr.
Green took the place of Dr. Alexander, who went home for rest, and from the time of his arrival till he left at about 6 o'clock the General seemed on the mend.

Among the callers last night were Rev. and Mrs. De Witt Talmage. They drove up in a closed carriage at 9 o'clock. They reappeared again ten minutes later, and a reporter had a chat with Dr. Talmage before he entered his carriage. He was certainly impressed with the feeling that General Sherman's end was not far distant. At 11:15 o'clock Dr. Alexander handed out the following bulletin:

"The result of the consultation of Drs. Alexander and Janeway shows that there has been no improvement in General Sherman's condition."

Hetkamp, an old soldier of this vicinity, was frozen to death in the woods

IS MR. HUNNER UNDER BONDS?

It would appear from the statement of Governor Peck that Treasurer Hunner's bondsmen can no longer be held responsible if the affairs of the treasurer's office are brought into question. The matter is brought up by Mr. Osborn in his resolution of inquiry addressed to the attorney general respecting the unauthorized and illegal loaning by the state treasurer of the state funds to the pet banks? The question is an entirely proper one whether such loan does not invalidate the bond of the treasurer, and relieve the bondsmen in the event of losses incurred by failure of any bank to which the funds may be loaned. Says the State Journal in speaking of Mr. Osborn's resolution: "The democracy is in a peculiar boat on this treasury matter. The governor in his message stated the necessity of a law authorizing the state treasurer to make these loans, but Treasurer Hunner, it appears, acts without warrant of law, and in violation of the provisions of the statute. An inquiry in to this condition of affairs by a resolution is treated by the democratic leaders as 'buncombe' and an attempt of republicans to gain political capital. But it would not be looked upon in a joking light if the state should suffer losses by reason of Mr. Hunner's unauthorized loans, by the bondsmen proving the invalidity of his bond on the ground that the state was receiving interest upon the money loaned, and which money was, therefore, not in the vaults of the treasury as required by law.
In the old days when the joker governor was a joker only, the question being asked, 'What will the democratic party do?' the joker replied: 'I will probably prove an alibi.' But the democracy can prove no alibi in the pending case. Governor Peck has officially informed the legislature that the state funds are loaned to the banks and that the interest 'will be' applied to the various funds. If there are losses under these conditions would not the state be the sufferer, not Mr. Hunner's bondsmen?

ABOUT BAILEY AND BLANKETS

The Recorder of this morning pretends to give an interview with a farmer from the town of Center, on barley. Now, that pretended interview was the conception of the fertile brain of the editor himself; for there is not a farmer in Center, even in the democratic party, so ignorant as the Recorder portrays that one to be. Give his name, please. As for the woolen blanket cry which the Recorder also raises, it is "played out." Merchants are advertising woolen goods cheaper than ever before. Let us quote from the Madison Democrat:
"Men's heavy overcoats—regular price $10, now $6.50."
"Think of an all wool beaver overcoat for $8.50!"
"Men's chinchilla overcoats, all wool—regular price $15, now $9.50."
"Men's all wool flannel drawers, 48 cents."
"Men's all wool suits, $6.50."
Just think of an all wool suit for $6.50 and this dealer must replenish his stock under the McKinley tariff, too.
Now, no well informed person expected prices of woolen goods would be higher under the McKinley tariff but they did expect, and it is proving true, that the sale of woolen goods would go to our own manufacturers and be made by our own operatives instead of foreign manufacturers and foreign laborers. There was not a woolen mill in this country making a living before the bill passed. We have right here in Janesville as good a mill as there is in the country and its stock was not worth twenty-five cents on the dollar. Did democratic managers want the stock? No. They prefer lying and misrepresentation, a business in which they are adepts.

SEWERS MUCH NEEDED.

A bill has been presented to the legislature for consideration, which, if passed, will give health officers power to regulate the sinking and construction of wells and vaults and, also the power to promptly destroy either of these dangerous evils when found to be jeopardizing life and health. At present there is no law governing the construction of either, as a result of which they have been placed, often times, near together and have been constructed without regard to the least attempt at sanitary care. As a result physicians declare that Janesville is filled with disease and even death-dealing wells, contaminated by the vaults found near them. Below what is termed "living" earth, a distance of four or five feet from the surface, the soil ceases, to a great extent, to be the poisoniferous to consume it, and in consequence it permeates the ground for a considerable distance and naturally seeks a level in the nearest poorly constructed well, filling that with the germs of disease, especially of a typhus nature. The argument for sewerage that this fact brings to view should be carefully considered. The complaint is made that a system of sewerage would benefit dwellers in a few streets only. The groundlessness of this is apparent. Anything that lessens the amount of filth pouring into the earth from day to day, improves the condition of every well in the city so just that extent, and confers benefits not only general, but individual.

One of the good things that came out of the Kansas senatorship squabble is the settlement of the relation of the "farmer" to the "agriculturalist."

One of the Kansas senators said in the recent caucus: "A farmer is one who works a farm, while an agriculturalist is one who works a farmer."

Parsons have been informed by a local paper that John L. Sullivan is a son of Sir Arthur Sullivan, who will doubtless be overwhelmed with the new honor and write a new opera with pagellia accompaniment.

Emperor William effectually disposes of captions critics of his government. Official life depends on seeing little and saying less.

The house and senate are both hard at work now, making up for the time wasted by filibustering democrats.

MICHIGAN.

Bills introduced in the Interest of the Delinquent Counties—Other Work of the Legislature.
LANSING, Mich., Feb. 12.—Bills were introduced in the Legislature Wednesday which will take nearly a half million dollars from the State Treasury and turn it over to the delinquent counties. Monroe County resisted the payment of certain State charges and carried the matter to the Supreme Court and won a victory. There is no reason why all the delinquent counties should not receive the same benefits, and the bills introduced to secure them will pass. A bill has been introduced in the House to license, under State authority, commission dealers in country produce. The measure is proposed by the Patrons of Industry. Several anti-oleomargarine bills were presented. One that is looked upon with general favor requires that butterine, oleomargarine and like substances must be colored pink in order that any one can distinguish them from real butter.

A bill introduced by Senator Basone, one of the three independent farmer Senators, providing for a uniform system of text books, stirred up a hot fight in the Senate. The bill provided that after June, 1892, uniform text books should be used in all the schools of the State, and that only the English language should be taught, no matter whether the school is graded or ungraded. This would prohibit the teaching of German or any other modern language in the high schools, and the opponents of the bill, after a short debate, succeeded in postponing its consideration.

ILLINOIS.

Proceedings in Both Branches of the State Legislature.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—The Senate ordered a third reading of the bill for an act to revise the law in relation to the rate of interest. The bill was introduced by Senator Caldwell, and provides that the contract rate of interest shall be reduced from 8 to 7 and the legal rate from 6 to 5 per cent. Senator MacMillan's world's fair resolution to create an Illinois Board of Lady Commissioners, introduced Tuesday, was referred to the world's fair committee. The consideration of Senator Bogardus' joint resolution for female suffrage was made the special order for Friday at 10:30.

In the House Mr. Eddy's amendment to the Parsons bill making the term of the railroad and warehouse commissioners two years instead of six, as recommended by the elections committee, was voted down.

The report of the Taubeneck investigating committee exonerating Mr. Taubeneck was submitted to the House and approved. The expenses of the investigation were $281.65.

Murdered by Violent Fates.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Feb. 12.—A row in a boarding house in this city resulted Tuesday night in the brutal murder of Michael Smith and the fatal injury of Michael Selka by Valenty Novak and son. The Novaks and other poles were causing on the second floor of the building and Smith and Selka went upstairs to stop the fracas, when they were set upon with pick-handles. Smith's body was pounded into an unrecognizable mass of flesh.

Big Blaze at Aurora, Ill.

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 12.—The new Mercantile block, the largest business building in the city, caught fire at midnight, and at this hour, 2:30 a. m., all the engines in the city are playing upon the fire but seem unable to control it, and the loss will probably be total, reaching $75,000.

United Workmen Elect Officers.

BOONE, Ia., Feb. 12.—The Grand Lodge of the Loyal Ancient Order of United Workmen has decided on Council Bluffs as the next meeting place. W. R. Graham, of Cedar Falls, was elected Master.

A GRAVE CHARGE.

Arrest of Secretary Gibson, of the Whisky Trust.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—George J. Gibson, secretary of the great whisky trust, has been arrested by United States officials on the charge of being a participant in a gigantic conspiracy involving the destruction of life and a vast amount of property. The conspiracy involved the destruction of the Shufeldt distillery and several others which are outside of the trust and which have given the whisky combine a great deal of trouble. The arrest was made at the Grand Pacific Hotel shortly after 6 o'clock a. m., by Inspector Stuart, of the Post-Office Department, Deputy United States Marshal Gilman and Treasury Agent Brooks, of New York. Gibson, who lives in Peoria, had just arrived in the city and was accompanied by his wife and daughter. He was taken into custody as he alighted from a carriage at the door of the hotel, and was at once hustled across the street into the government building, where he was locked up in the United States Marshal's office.

Gibson was carrying a small satchel at the time of the arrest, and this was captured by Inspector Stuart. In the satchel were found articles which conclusively proved the intentions of the conspirators. The contents of the satchel were locked up in the safe in the inspector's office.

The Treasury Department at Washington was informed of the conspiracy some time ago, and its officers were set to work to thwart it and arrest the participants. Special Agent Brooks and Agent Sumner, of the Internal Revenue Department, were sent here from New York some days ago, and Inspector Stuart, although his department was not concerned in the conspiracy, received special instructions from Washington to co-operate with the Eastern officials. The case was worked up with great secrecy and, after the arrest of the secretary, not a particle of information could be obtained as to the nature of the conspiracy except that its consummation involved wholesale destruction of life and property.

The specific charge against Gibson is that he tried to bribe an employee of the Government named De War to blow up Shufeldt's distillery. All the arrangements had been completed for the fiendish work when De War informed the Government officials of the plan and prevented the consummation of the conspiracy. Solicitor Hart has in his possession the dynamite machine with which the destruction was to be effected and papers closing the contract for the diabolical business. The whole conspiracy was worked up through Revenue Inspector T. S. De War, who was told guardedly some months ago that Shufeldt's distillery was in the way of the trust, and that there was "big money" for the man who succeeded in getting the concern out of the way. Gibson was brought before Commissioner Hoyne shortly after 12 o'clock and waived examination. He was held to the Federal grand jury in $20,000 bonds. It is probable that the prosecution of the conspirators will be turned over to the State courts, as the conspiracy involved the crime of arson and murder as well as violations of the United States laws.

Inspector Stuart of the Post-office Department, one of the officers who made the arrest, said to a reporter: "I am not at liberty to say the facts of the case, but there is nothing that your imagination can conceive of more diabolical and horrible than the intentions of the conspirators. It was nipped just in time, too, for the first time they had been struck here in Chicago. Then it would have been repeated at other points."

Solicitor Hart told the story to a reporter as follows:
"Some months ago the Washington department was assured that there were not just a few of the large tanks so that a few straight from the fact that the trust people tried their best to have a certain man appointed inspector of the department for this district. We set a watch upon T. S. De War, who communicated with, and this man Gibson opened up a correspondence with him. We had the correspondence Gibson sent to him, cautiously, telling him at first that Shufeldt's concern was in the way and that they were trying to get it out of the way. He got a little bolder soon and finally, led on by De War, who was all the time in consultation with the department, he made a straight proposition. He offered De War $20,000 and then increased the offer to $25,000, to blow up the concern. Gibson stated that he had a dynamite machine that could be located just outside of one of the large tanks so that a few moments after it was placed it would explode. There would be plenty of time, Gibson told De War, for him to get away and that he was the only man who could place it, because of the fact that as a Government officer he had access to all parts of the building."

"The result of the success of the conspiracy would have been that the machine would have exploded between two of the immense tanks, making a terrible destruction, and a sea of alcohol on fire. Gibson lied when he told De War that the machine would not go off until he had time to get away, for it would have exploded at once, killing the man who placed it the very instant before he could possibly get away, thus destroying the only evidence against the trust people and at the same time saving to them the $25,000 that De War was to have received. In addition to the destruction of De War and Gibson, the destruction of the plot meant unquestionably the death of 150 men working in the place."

As I say, Mr. De War, under our instructions, went the length of the conspiracy to the point of doing the diabolical deed, and when Gibson arrested he arrested him, waiting, naturally, expecting to hear of the explosion and the destruction of all those lives and all that property. We have in our possession all the evidence to substantiate De War's story; the dynamite machine, the letters, the record of the De War and Gibson, in fact every thing. The case is practically over so far as our department is concerned. The case is made."

The whisky trust is a mammoth concern, with a capital of $25,000,000. Ever since its formation, some years ago, it has urged a bitter warfare against all the distilleries which refused to join it. The principal concern which refused to enter the combine was Shufeldt's distillery on the North side. Early one morning in the fall of 1888 two dynamite bombs were thrown through the roof of the distillery, and one of them exploded and tore a great hole in the roof. Had the other bomb exploded the destruction of the distillery would have been complete, as directly under it was a room containing many thousands of barrels of inflammable material. The explosion produced a great sensation at the time, but no clue to the guilty parties was ever obtained. It was freely charged at the time, however, that the whisky trust was responsible for the crime. It will be remembered that "Little Kunze" and his Coughlin, of the Cronin fame, were implicated in this case.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 12.—Great surprise was caused here by the news of the arrest in Chicago of George S. Gibson. Prominent distillers here are non-committal and have but little to say on the subject. The only expression that can be gained from any of these men is that they consider the entire business a farce and say it is being instigated by the Shufeldts. It is rumored here that United States detectives who were here one week ago gained an entrance to the trust headquarters and searched them carefully. In the basement they found a dynamite machine and explosive chemical and were told to destroy all the distilleries in the world. It is known officers were here, but the story about the searching of the headquarters can not be traced to any reliable source. Several prominent whisky men will go to Chicago to aid Gibson.

Gibson came here fifteen years ago from Cleveland, O., where he had been employed in a railroad office. He married a daughter of E. Scoville, of Cleveland, a retired iron-mill man. Gibson was first employed as book-keeper in the Monarch distillery, and in 1873, when the Western Export Association was formed, he was elected secretary. Since then he has continually held the office, although the whisky trust has adopted different names. He drew a yearly salary of $5,000 in the trust and was placed in the way of making several thousand more each year. He was poor when he came here, but is now rated at $150,000 and owns a beautiful residence on Prospect hill.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The House Spends the Day in Discussing the Legislative Bill—The Senate Passes the Naval Bill.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—In the House Wednesday, on motion of Mr. Richardson (Tenn.), the Senate amendment to the House bill to fix the rate of wages of certain employees of the Government printing office was non-concurred in. The House then went to the committee of the whole. Mr. Payson (Ill.) in the chair, on the legislative appropriation bill. A long discussion followed, and general debate having closed, the reading of the bill was continued. The paragraphs relative to the civil-service commission were passed over for the present without prejudice. Without disposing of the bill the committee rose.

In the Senate consideration of the naval appropriation bill was resumed, the pending question being on the amendment in reference to the site of a dry-dock on the Pacific coast, whether on Puget sound or on the Columbia river. After debate the amendment fixing Port Orchard, on Puget sound, as the site was passed. After some further discussion the bill was passed. Senator Wolcott (Col.), from the committee on civil service, reported back without recommendation the Senate bill to insure preference in appointment, employment and retention in the public service of the United States to veterans in the late war, and it was placed on the calendar. The copyright bill was then taken up, but as Senator Platt (Conn.) realized that little progress could be made upon it he consented that the bill should be laid aside informally and that bills on the calendar should be taken up. A number of these of an unimportant character were passed and the Senate adjourned.

PULP MADE OF HIS FOOT

Will West Shockingly Hurt in a Runaway.

HIS FLESH TURNS BLACK.

Mortification Sets in and the Boy Brought to Janesville for Surgical Treatment. Fears Being Entertained That the Case May Result Fatally.

Willie West, the sixteen year old son of Dr. William J. A. West, of Clinton, was brought to the city to-day to have his right foot amputated. The boy has suffered terribly for a week. One week ago the horse he was driving ran away wrecking the vehicle.

Young West had his foot shockingly crushed. His foot just below the instep was mangled so that all the bones protruded through the upper part of the foot.

Local doctors cut open the foot and removed many of the broken bones and then dressed the wound. Bone set and mortification set in, the foot turned black and the boy was brought to this city for surgical treatment.

At a late hour this afternoon the operation had not yet been performed but it was considered that something of the kind must be done immediately in order to save the boy's life.

French Cookery in 1578.

"The French," writes the Venetian ambassador in 1578, "never spend money so willingly as when they are purchasing food, and making what they term bonne chere. This is the reason why butchers, restaurateurs, pastry cooks and tavern keepers abound. There is not a street in which you do not find them. Would you purchase meat, either dead or alive? You can do so at any moment. Do you wish your provisions to be sent in dressed? The cooks and pastry cooks, in less than an hour, will furnish you with a dinner or a supper for ten, for twenty or even for a hundred persons.

"The rotisseur provides the meat, the pastry cook the pies, tarts, entrees and desserts; the confectioner contributes the jellies, sauces and ragouts. The art of gastronomy is so far advanced in Paris that you can order a dinner at any price, from a teston to twenty crowns. For this latter sum I verily believe you could obtain manna soup or roast phoenix, or whatever is most precious in the world."—All the Year Round.

EYES CLOSED AS IN SLEEP.

Hon. Andrew Palmer.

Weary under the weight of eighty-two years Andrew Palmer lies at rest. In him there passed away one who has been for years constant in his efforts to advance Janesville's interests. Coming here when Janesville was scarcely large enough to be called a hamlet he steadily watched and contributed to its material wealth and growth.

Covering almost the whole of the nine decades of the present century his life was an eventful one. He was born at Binghamton, New York March 28, 1808. At the age of fourteen he entered a printing office as an apprentice. Mastering his trade, he was engaged for several years in publishing newspapers in his native state. Finally he took up his march for the then far west, stopping for a while at Toledo, Ohio, where he published a newspaper. He made several visits to Wisconsin territory, and in 1836 he engaged with an eastern land company and personally located large tracts of land at Madison and near Lake Koshkonong. In 1845 he removed with his family to Wisconsin, and settled at Oshkosh, but the next year he came to Janesville, locating on the spot where he died.

He never engaged actively in the publishing of a newspaper in this city, although he held an interest in several newspaper ventures. During the war of the rebellion he was connected with his brother in the publication of the Monitor, and previous to that time he held an interest in the Standard and also in the Times, democratic journals that flourished for a season previous to the rebellion. Mr. Palmer filed many places of honor and trust. He was a member of the territorial legislature representing Rock county in the upper house during 1847 and 1848. The members from Rock in the lower branch for 1847 were Jared G. Winslow and James M. Burgess, and in 1848, Daniel C. Babcock and George H. Williston.

Mr. Palmer was also a member of the board of education, one of the trustees of the school for the blind, and served as a member of the village board, the common council and the county board of supervisors. Always taking a leading part he was indefatigable in his labors for the public good. For many years he conducted a drug store on West Milwaukee street, but for the last twenty years the infirmities of age have to a great extent kept him from active business. He leaves besides a wife four children—Mrs. Mary Schlemm, of Milwaukee, Illinois; Mrs. Hattie M. Poppleton, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Carrie M. Chase, of this city, and Charles B. Palmer, of Washington Territory. The funeral arrangements have not yet been perfected, but the funeral will not be held before Saturday or Sunday.

Mrs. C. C. Phelps. Mrs. C. C. Phelps, for many years a resident of this city, died at her home in Despere, Wednesday morning, aged ninety-one years, her funeral taking place to-morrow afternoon. Mrs. Phelps came to Janesville with her husband and family many years ago, her husband establishing one of the first brick yards in the village, on the ground now occupied by the residence of Volney Atwood, South Franklin street. Mrs. Phelps' death was the result of infirmities of old age. She will be remembered by all the early settlers of the city.

Mrs. W. J. Owen. Mrs. William J. Owen, of Footville, died this morning. Her death will be a surprise to her many friends in Rock county, where she had resided since 1855. She had been a sufferer for some time with a complication of diseases, her death not being wholly unexpected by those who were acquainted with her critical condition. She was fifty-seven years of age, and besides her husband she leaves a family consisting of three daughters and two sons. The funeral will be held from the church in Footville on Saturday afternoon at 10:30 o'clock.

THEY SEEK DARKNESS.

Democrats Shudder at Talk of Investigation.

WHAT IS HUNNER DOING?

Senators Make an Effort to Find Out, but the Democratic Majority Says That Smelling Commissions are Very Much to Be Feared.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—There was a lively debate in the assembly this morning over the joint resolution authorizing the governor to forward to Washington a protest of the legislature against the bill in the United States senate granting authority to the Mississippi boom company to construct a boom in the Mississippi river between Winona and the mouth of the Chippewa river. Mr. Mead argued against the suspension of rules to pass resolutions claiming that the parties interested should be allowed to consider it. It was maintained by the supporters of the resolution that the improvements proposed by the bill were injurious to navigation. The resolution went over.

Democrats defeated the amendment to the charter of the city of Phillips to make cost of publication chargeable to that city, by laying the amendment and the bill on the table.

Among the bills introduced was one releasing sheriffs and deputies from liability in service of papers in civil actions.

In the senate bills were introduced: Allowing notaries public to perform marriage ceremony.

Authorizing the appointment of a state bank examiner, who shall examine and report the condition of private and state banks twice a year.

Giving graduates in medicine the rights of pharmacists.

Making the age of consent of females eighteen years.

The committee on charities and penal institutions, reported in favor of the passage of a bill abolishing the two state boards and creating a new one. Senator Bechtner dissented.

He held that the various institutions of the state were humanely and economically managed and the duties of the board well and properly attended to, and that the system of controlling the charitable, penal and reform institutions devised and carried out by the state board of charities and reform had brought them to a degree of excellence unsurpassed by those of any other state.

Governor Peck announced the appointment of Michael Kerwin, of Manitowish, Dennis J. Garzer, of Platteville, and Ira A. Hill, of Sparta, as members of the board of regents of the state normal schools. The appointments were confirmed.

The resolution requesting State Treasurer Hunner to give his authority for loaning the state funds came up but was referred to the committee on state affairs after a short debate. The bill passed making homesteads liable for the debts of deceased when willed to other than direct heirs.

Wanted the Annex.

The actions of a man at the post-office the other day attracted attention. He kept going in and out, walking up and down the corridor and looking into the several windows, and he was finally asked what troubled him.

"I want to get a money order," he replied.

"Go to the annex."

"That's where the whole botheration comes in. I saw the sign up there, but I'll be hanged if I know what an annex is. Is it up stairs or down cellar—a circus or a steamboat? I know enough to give a bunch stealer the cold shake, but I never run up again an annex yet."

He was fully informed of its nature and location, and he started off saying: "Oh, that's it. If it's an addition why don't they call it one? My shirt collar is a part of my dress, but you don't catch me going into a store and inquiring for a No. 16 annex."—Detroit Free Press.

Radicals in the French Parliament.

A correspondent asks, How do the Radicals in the present French parliament compare in numbers with the moderate Republicans, and did they gain or lose in the election of 1889?

In the present chamber of deputies, which was elected in September, 1889, the Radicals are not as strong as they were in the chamber chosen four years earlier, while the Moderates are stronger. The Moderates control the present chamber, having a majority over the Radicals, the Bourbons and the Bonapartists combined. The preceding chamber was divided pretty evenly between the Moderates, the Radicals and the Bourbon Bonapartist group.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Where Oil Was First Used.

It is to the Persian language that we must go for the derivation of the term naphtha, the root napha meaning to exude, and the oil was so called on account of its exuding from the soil. The native naphtha of Persia and Japan would seem to have furnished the natives with a lamp illuminant from the very earliest ages. Its first authentic use in Europe would, however, seem to date back no farther than the later part of last century, when a limited supply of "lamp oil" obtained from a district in Calabria was utilized by the Italian peasantry to light their dwellings.—Chambers' Journal.

He Needs No Typewriter.

John Habberton, the author of "Helen's Babies," is a two handed man. When engaged on a long article he changes from one hand to the other every fifteen or twenty minutes, and so avoids fatigue and that distressing complaint known as "servicer's paralysis." To write at a stretch 12,000 words is rather a tiresome task. The fingers become cramped and a dull pain affects the palm of the hand. Habberton can write 12,000 words by using his hands alternately without any painful sensation whatever.—New York World.
